

Miscellaneous Micro Designs

The Micro product line is so versatile and reliable that over the years our customers have found more ways to package it than even we thought were possible! We have included standard data sheets on two of the oddball interfaces that have gained a lot of industry acceptance. We have also included a pictorial collage of some other unique custom products that we have designed and fabricated at our customers' request. Over half of what we build fits this category and it is impossible to show everything in our catalog. Please contact us if you have a unique application. Chances are that sometime in the past 15 years we have made something similar to what you are looking for.
